Farewell.. and Hope to See You Down the Road

By Tracey Ellis

After 35 years, THE LATEST SCOOP® is now in the very capable hands of Steve and Miriam Clark of Aurora, CO. I was very impressed with the quality and professionalism of what Steve and his entire group were doing with SHIFT Colorado and Colorado Cars and Coffee and thought they would be a great fit for THE LATEST SCOOP® I hope that all of you will continue to support Steve and Miriam, whether as an auto enthusiast, event organizer or advertiser so THE LATEST SCOOP® can continue for another 35 years.

I couldn't have done it without all of you and am very grateful for all your support & your friendship. I have made some truly great friends through all my years with THE LATEST SCOOP® & I will miss seeing you and hearing what you are doing on a regular basis. I hope to see you at a variety of car events which I will now be able to attend since I'll be spending less time on the phone and sitting in front of a computer. I plan to return to freelance writing, photography & work on car projects with my family.

Thank you all for making it so hard to say goodbye and I hope to see you down the road.

Tracey's 1969 Acapulco Blue Mach I Mustang was put up for collateral in late 1989 to purchase an Apple Mac Plus computer and a dot matrix printer to start producing THE LATEST SCOOP®.

The NOV/DEC 1990 issue of THE LATEST SCOOP® featured an endorsement by Jerry Kennedy of the National Street Rod Association.

It's impossible to pick a favorite cover in 35 years, but Shannon Watts has been one of the most popular featured artists. Special thanks to Shannon who also created THE LATEST SCOOP® website.

Hello...

My wife (Miriam) and I (Steve) are pleased to announce that as of January 1, 2026, we have officially assumed ownership of Scoop. After 35 years of exceptional leadership, Tracey Ellis reached out to us last summer to discuss the future of Scoop Auto Events. We are honored to carry Tracey's legacy forward while integrating Scoop into our established media ecosystem of Colorado Cars & Coffee. Colorado Cars & Coffee is the largest Colorado based car events portal, and publishes a biweekly listing of local car events and a quarterly Colorado centric car magazine, called SHIFT Colorado.

Our goal is to honor Scoop's regional focus, modernize it, and increase value for advertisers, car clubs and readers. It aligns perfectly with what we do with CO C&C, so we think it will slot in well.

What this transition means for you:

- Large Digital Reach: Every issue of Scoop will now be delivered directly to our 8,000+ email subscribers
- Social Amplification: We are leveraging our existing audience of 140,000+ followers across Facebook and Instagram to provide unprecedented visibility for Scoop content
- Enhanced Navigation: We are implementing event sorting by state, ensuring your local events and advertisements are found instantly
- New Community Hubs: We have launched dedicated social channels to foster daily engagement

You can always reach us by email at scoop@scoopautoevents.com and we would love to hear from you! We absolutely depend on you for car event listings, as leveraging crowd-sourcing for events is a powerful thing, and increases the validity of event information.

Please provide feedback on Scoop, we want to improve in the best ways possible. We want to make great connections with car clubs, event organizers and advertisers and to get your event information right! Concerning PRINT, it's an area that we will be looking into but please understand going to print is a costly option. We plan to investigate if it is something we can support.

There are two primary ways to receive Scoop, via an online subscription at Zinio.com for $30/year, or you can sign up for free for our email newsletter at <http://eepurl.com/hrVDe5> as we will focus on ad supported revenue. Please always consider our advertisers, they are the ones who make Scoop a reality!

We're excited and ready to take the reigns, and continue the proud history of Scoop! Come along and join us!

Thank you,
Steve & Miriam Clark

The Tale of the 1969 Plymouth Road Runner

The Improbable Reunion of a Classic MOPAR with its Early Owner

Story: Gary Ellison (contributed) Photography: Roy and Mary Neal (contributed) Foreward: Brendan Garst

Selling a car is always a tough thing. Its usually brought on by necessity in some form or another; whenever I have run out of room, talent, money, patience or some combination of the above, its often hard for me to usher a car across the rainbow bridge to Facebook Marketplace.

In modern society, its easy to see how object permanence has taken a backseat in many cases to the transient nature of possession; we often acquire and get rid of things without much thought. In Gary Ellison's case, though, a recently-acquired 1969 Plymouth Roadrunner led him back to the car's early owner after decades in the wild. I'll let Gary take it from here!

I originally had purchased a brand new 1968 Plymouth Road Runner in the fall of 1967. It was the first year of production for the Road Runner. It was a color code EK2 vitamin C orange body with a black vinyl top 4-speed transmission and the 383 cubic inch engine. I really enjoyed that car. As life dictated, I sold it in 1972 and always wanted to buy another one. In the Summer and the Fall of 2008 I purchased two Road Runners. A 1968 color code B5 blue 4-speed coupe in Michigan and a 1969 color code L1 sand pebble beige automatic coupe in Illinois. Both had the 383 cubic inch engine in them.

In all my classic car purchases I tried to figure out the car's prior ownership and the original dealership history. Anybody who has done this research knows it takes time and effort; Often you come to dead ends and never quite figure it out. I started to do research on the 1969 Road Runner and got to dead ends. In August of 2016 I commissioned an automotive research firm to assist in the effort. A few weeks later the automotive research firm called me, mentioning they had some further information for me and that he had just spoken to a gentleman, named Roy, in Texas who wanted to talk to me about the car. I called Roy and we discussed the Road Runner. After sending numerous pictures and exchanging information we determined it was the car Roy had purchased when he was nineteen years old and was two weeks graduated from high school (his first car, and the car's second or third owner from new).

We started to discuss selling the car. During our negotiations Roy sent me a picture showing it as their wedding and honeymoon car. Plus he said over the years it was used to bring four newborn babies home from the hospital. He further explained that he had to sell the Road Runner thirty years ago due to some changes in life; As the family grew he sold the Road Runner to purchase a van. The family needed more room to haul items. He said that he always regretted selling it, having owned it for 14 years.

Roy had lost contact with where the Road Runner had gone; The last he knew it was in Florida. For thirty years Roy looked at ads and did his own research hoping he would come across his beloved car. After we determined it was indeed his old car, we struck a deal, and Roy and his wife, Mary, of 47 years came from Texas to Longmont with an enclosed trailer to take the Road Runner back to its rightful home. We met out at a hotel parking lot east of Longmont. Roy and Mary walked around and sat in the Road Runner; I am sure it brought back old memories for them. Roy reached in his pants pocket and told me he had kept the original ignition key for 47 years and was going to go start it. Roy said he had prayed for thirty years that his car would return. I was not sure the key would still work. It started right up and it had that great Road Runner rumble, plus the iconic "Meep-Meep" horn.

I saw the joy in Roy's eyes sitting behind the wheel of his beloved car. Mary, standing next to the car commented how nice the car looked. Mary mentioned that they had borrowed the money to buy the car, as they had purchased a house they had not even moved into yet. The timing was not ideal financially for them, but Mary said "if we do not do it now the chance to buy the Road Runner may never happen again". The Road Runner almost sounded as if it agreed, as if the car could talk, it would say "You finally came to get me after all these years"! It was a moment neither Roy, Mary, or myself will ever forget. I became somewhat emotional as to what a story this was.

We loaded the Road Runner in their enclosed trailer and they headed south on I-25 towards Texas. I pulled off I-25 onto the Erie exit and watched as Roy, Mary and the car headed South, with all of us waving goodbye. I was sad to see my Road

Runner leave but knew it was going to the rightful owners and was going back home where it belongs.

Today it is going to car shows and is collecting a room full of trophies. Roy and I have had numerous phone conversations about the mystery in how this all worked out. It was like a jigsaw puzzle with many pieces. What if I had not tried to find the original ownership history? What if I had not commissioned the automotive researcher, or if they had not found where the Road Runner was originally registered in Texas? The serendipity in these and several other outcomes that led to reuniting Roy and his car is truly amazing. Roy and I continue to tell this story, it is not often that you sell a car and gain a great friend. It was six years ago on September 23, 2016 that Roy and Mary came to get their long lost Road Runner. Every year we celebrate that anniversary.

OWN COLOR

PROJECT PATINA

Story and Photography: Scott Minshall

First thing's first: No, I am not going to paint it. As a patina car owner myself, I get this question constantly. I also get demands that I keep it just how it is or that it would look better with some clearcoat. We all have opinions and like what we like; nothing is right or wrong. Patina cars, love them or hate them, possess a lot of character and a rich backstory of all the life they've lived; That's what draws them to enthusiasts. A patina car inspires wonder about its past, enduring the elements and awaiting rescue. My car has blemishes and even some hail damage that adds to its character, which I personally love. Whether a vehicle lived in a barn for 30 years, was forgotten in a field, or it's been driven daily since new, these cars draw special attention. Original faded paint, scratches, signs of distress, and bare metal all fall under the "patina look" category. Some patina is naturally occurring, and some is manufactured or accelerated. We'll get into that later. We are here to shed some light on why this is a popular look and understood by some folks. Car enthusiasts and non-car enthusiasts have a high appreciation for the patina look, while others think it's lazy or see it as unfinished. Just because it's patina'd doesn't mean it's a piece of crap. A popular saying goes, "It's that

Original paint and patina cars are still out there, and there is a deep love for them.

Let's get into a few trends when it comes to patina cars. Vehicles of a certain era have only single-stage paint, and with clear coat only becoming a standard in the 1980s, the finish on some of these vehicles just hasn't stood the test of time, and start naturally fading. These cars possess an obvious authenticity only Mother Nature can produce. Others have been forced into a patina state with the help of abrasives or customization.

Manufactured patina can be done masterfully, or not so much so. Some rides have had full restorations with the exception of the body and paint; we're talking engine, suspension, brakes - all the goods. Then the original body placed right back on top of a custom chassis without being touched, prolonging the life of a perfectly distressed gem.

There are custom patina paint jobs that accentuate the distress that already exists; those can be real trick and are like pieces of art. Then you have forced patina with abrasive marks that cover most of the vehicle. I'm not here to judge, but like I said earlier, some are done better than others. So, whether patina is from neglect, outdated finishing techniques, or some other force, it is a part of car culture and we are here to celebrate it! Welcome to Project Patina, where we will explore some unique cars with some incredible stories.

Our inaugural patina ride belongs to Justin Gurule. A 1958 Twin Turbo Chevy Apache named Geronimo. This well-crafted classic was built by Danny Omasta in North Carolina in 2018. The truck has a custom rear chassis based off of a 2010 Camaro with independent suspension and GM G-body tubular-based front suspension equipped with coilovers. The powerplant is a 4.8L LS-based engine with an iron block, aluminum heads, and the main attraction; dual 66mm turbos mounted in the headlight sockets with an intercooler front and center. This high-powered package is mated with a 4L80e trans and a Circle D torque converter to deliver some dialed-in performance.

Justin bought the Apache truck from a friend who acquired it from Danny; a gift to himself for his 45th birthday (with his wife's permission, of course). He has always been into patina trucks, and when he saw the Apache being built online, it immediately caught his eye. He admires Danny's work along with his artistic vision and sees the twin-turbo Apache as a rolling piece of art. He likes the attention it draws because it's so different, stating, "It draws attention like an ice cream truck."

His thoughts on patina are similar to others I've talked to: "not everyone can afford a shiny paint job, but buying a $500 truck and dropping $20k in performance parts is more attainable." I agree, keeping the exterior original is appreciated and a bit more fun. He also mentions that keeping the patina condition can go for a pretty penny from the right enthusiast. While Justin gets asked often if he wants to sell the Apache, he sees owning a piece of Danny's art as important to him and wants to hold onto it for the time being.

"It's hard to find a rust bucket anymore that hasn't been touched. Everyone wants to pull these trucks out of hibernation, spend that $20k on parts rather than paint, and just keep the originality in place."

Justin says his wife doesn't care to ride in the truck because it's fast, loud, and doesn't like the smell of gasoline, but he loves it because it is rough and rowdy. "It's an all eyes on me feeling when I drive it!" Justin recounts as he revels in the attention it gets. He had to learn to drive it, especially with the custom pedals, twin turbos, and low seat. The new bling-gauges and a powerful engine are not something you see every day. The Apache has the perfect blend of old and new and is something that really balances the truck.

It's wild to think this truck is manufactured patina; well, at least partially. It was already in a state of distress when Danny Omasta started the build, but he accentuated the rough edges and added his own touches. It was done very well and with intention. Justin said as much of the original truck was kept intact as possible, including some of the giant rust holes in the bedside. After the walk-around tour of the Apache, he took me for a spin. I understand why Justin loves his truck so much, and I think people enjoyed seeing the Apache out in the wild based on all the waves and head nods. Justin's Apache truck is a patina monster through and through.

Thanks to enthusiasts like Justin for being good stewards of patina rides like this one and extending their life. Whether they have just been pulled from their slumber or had some professional attention like the Apache, these cars are special to someone.

TRI-STATE SWAP MEET - DEAL OR DIE

Diving into my new role as the Scoop guy, I headed out to experience the Tri-State Swap Meet in Denver over a warm February weekend, thank God for global warming. Held at the National Western Expo Center, more famous for rodeos and bulls and the 4H Club, the Sabers of Denver car club organize this massive event.

Among the fainter smell of cattle, the slightly stronger smell of gasoline, rubber and BBQ wafted over the rows upon rows of muscle car parts, tools, signs and the bric-a-brac of Americana. Spread out over several buildings, down in the basement, even in the cattle auction stadium area, there was a car corral, where deals were being made for running cars and a smattering of abandoned projects.

I stopped by to see Tracey and Wayne, her husband, in Booth 1065, proudly displaying the THE LATEST SCOOP on a huge banner, handing out National Street Rod Association 2026 schedules. We discussed the upcoming issue of Scoop - this one - and the difficulty of verifying car events. There are so many sources of events, but too many are outdated or offering bad information. There's a lot to wade through.

In the car corral, the cars ranged from a Bandimere family collection pristine, red 1957 Chevy 2 door hardtop, 3 speed manual priced for $94,750, a shortie 1957

Chevy 4 door Bel Air customized into a shortened, 2-door piece of awesomeness for $12000, a 1964 Oldsmobile Starfire for $8500, a 1966 Chrysler 300 for $4975 and a 2006 Subaru Baja for $4500.

Walking row after row of merchandise, I stopped by the Shannon Watts art display, and introduced myself to Shannon and his wife, Julie. Shannon's a fantastic artist, and I loved his "Is There Life After Death" t-shirt.

Wandering down a few aisles, I met up with Burke Payne of BP Appraisals, who I've known for a while as a Colorado Cars & Coffee sponsor. Burke provides appraisals, fighting the low-ball offer you might get from the insurance, after your ride's been totaled.

Also stopped by the Sabers of Denver Car Club booth and said hello to Lance Jarman, who I knew when he worked at Paddock Imports. It was great to say hi, and congratulate Sabers on a very smoothly run swap meet.

Had a great time, met a few folks, talking Model A's, artwork, and classic car appraisals. Parking was a racket at $20 but the experience was lively and the people watching fun!

WE WANT YOU!

Do you race to build knock-off Lego cars at your local brewery with friends, beer, insults and instructions in Chinese? You should try it! Over the weekend, the SHIFT Colorado team got together to celebrate the latest issue release and to kick back with friends!

Now that Miriam and I have our first issue under our belt, we'd like you to tell us about it. Feedback will only help us get better.

Thank you for giving us a read, we are learning how to find the best websites for your state's car events. There are plenty of portals with outdated, unverified information and we are trying to avoid those. If you have event information, please email us and send us a flyer. That will help so much!

How else can you help? It's Simple!

- Have you attended a local car event? We'd love to share your photos and stories, with all credit to you
- Do you do other cool stuff that doesn't fit the previous two categories? Racing or project car? Vehicle exhibition or museum?
- Are you a local car club? Please send us your details so we can start listing verified car clubs
- Do you have or want to learn skills in Journalism, photography, writing, graphic design, layout design?
- Do you know of anything else car tangential we can cover?

If the above was yes, drop us a line! We are always looking for new things to cover, and new team members to join us in covering it!

For Scoop, we will continue to refine our processes for finding events, sharing local car content, while building up the social media channels which help us connect with you and other car enthusiasts.

While Colorado is our backbone and our home, we want to make connections with the car community across the regional states we serve. We appreciate your honest feedback and patience as we build Scoop into the best it can be.

Thank you for being here!
